Positively charged

Technical appendices

The Audit Commission is an independent body responsible for ensuring that public money is spent economically, efficiently and effectively, to achieve high-quality local services for the public. Our remit covers around 11,000 bodies in England, which between them spend more than £180 billion of public money each year. Our work covers local government, health, housing, community safety and fire and rescue services.

As an independent watchdog, we provide important information on the quality of public services. As a driving force for improvement in those services, we provide practical recommendations and spread best practice. As an independent auditor, we seek to ensure that public services are good value for money and that public money is properly spent.

About this publication

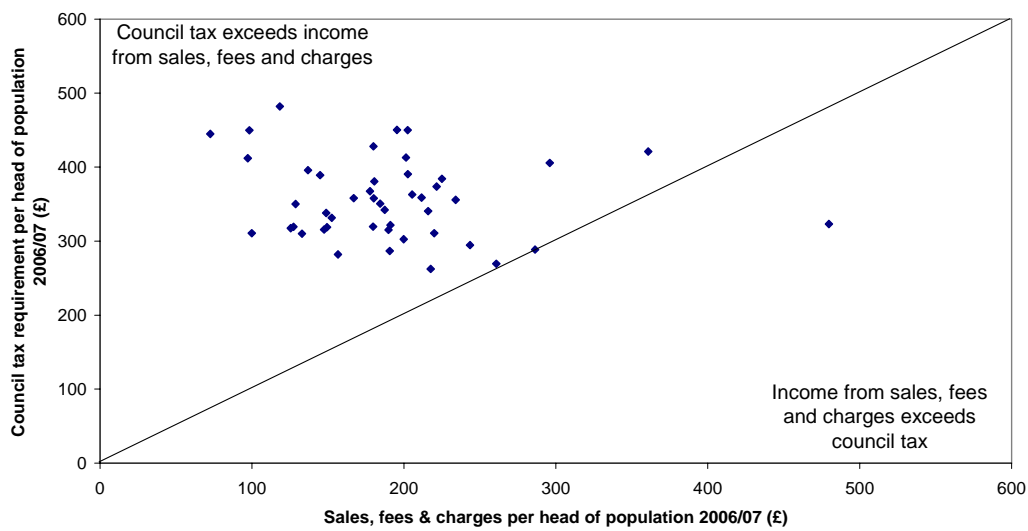

This publication contains technical appendices referred to in our report, Positively charged: Maximising the benefits of local public service charges, which presents findings from a national study on how councils are making use of their charging powers. The full report and other resources to help councils improve their approaches to charging can be found at www.audit-commission.gov.uk/charging.
